The Toronto Police Service has a long standing tradition of working with the community to assist those in need. These initiatives have been internationally acclaimed for assisting those who require help. In addition officers and civilian members volunteer countless hours of their own time to show how much they care.

The Toronto Police Service, partnered with the United Way and its member agencies, provide a multitude of remarkable programmes which deal with complex and demanding issues such as homelessness, substance abuse and addiction, marriage breakups, elder care and mental illness, to name but a few.

It is a remarkable association of shared experience and determination to make Toronto a better and more humane place for its citizens that brings the United Way and Toronto Police together annually. Over the years the Toronto Police have donated millions of dollars to The United Way Campaigns
